GLOSSARY OF TERMS

Student:

People enrolled in forms of training – accredited or non-accredited training programs, short courses, recognition or assessment only pathways.

Trainee:

Students enrolled in a program work-based training called a traineeship. Trainees are indentured or contracted with their employer and the NSW Department of Education for the period of the traineeship. Specific information is provided for trainees and employers prior to enrolment. People interested in traineeships can request further information from JobQuest or Training Services NSW.

Vocational Education and Training [VET]:

This is the tertiary education system made up of public [TAFE] and private organisations that deliver training services that are linked to qualifications in particular industries. For example: A Certificate III is a qualification aimed at persons working at a service delivery level. Certificate IV is the level above [eg: supervisors] followed by the Diploma level [eg: managers].

These qualifications are nationally recognised. This means that if a student has gained a Certificate III in Victoria and they go to work in New South Wales the certificate is the same as one a person studying in New South Wales would get and must be recognised as such.

Accredited Training or Nationally Recognised Training:

Australia has a national training system based on industry performance standards. These are documented as Competencies or Units of Competency and are packaged for various industries in a Training Package.

Registered Training Organisation - RTO:

All organisations that deliver training services in the VET sector must be registered, checked by the government accrediting body – the Australian Skills Quality Authority [ASQA] and are referred to as a Registered Training Organisation or RTO. Only an RTO can issue a nationally recognised qualification.

Competence:

Competence is the ability of a person to do something well and is measured against an expected standard.

In the vocational education and training system a person is said to be competent when they have the required skills and knowledge and can apply these in such a way that they can demonstrate their ability to do a particular task or job as described by industry performance standards. These industry performance standards are referred to as Competencies or Units of Competency. Groups of these units make up each nationally recognised qualification.

Each Unit of Competency is divided into a set of key elements or activities and each of these elements is further broken down into a set of performance criteria. This gives everyone involved in the process – the trainer, the assessor and in some cases the student, a clear description of the expected skills and knowledge that need to be attained.

Qualifications often have compulsory or core units [those which must be done] and elective units [a set of units from which the student can choose]. The number of units and the core and elective units are all set down in the industry Training Package. The RTO can choose which elective Units of Competency it offers students.

Students, trainees and their employers are given detailed information about the units available prior to the completion of the student's Training Plan.

Students may be enrolled in training programs that are designed to deliver qualifications or specific skills aligned with one or more units from a qualification. Students are also given detailed information about the Units of Competency required for the qualification they are seeking.

Assessment and Recognition of Prior Learning:

Assessment is the process whereby a student demonstrates that they have the skills and knowledge and can apply these to meet the industry standard – the Unit of Competency.

An assessor collects evidence and makes a judgement based on the evidence collected that a student meets the knowledge and skills requirements of a particular Unit of Competency.

Recognition of Prior Learning [RPL]:

This is an assessment process that recognises the skills and knowledge that a student may already have from previous training, life experiences [such as volunteer work] or work experiences.

RPL is just a way of assessing that is used when a student believes that they already have some of the required skills. It may enable a student to speed up the process of completing a qualification if they so choose.

A student's ability to acquire and present evidence of their abilities, and the assessor's ability to relate and match evidence against the requirements of a Unit of Competency is the key to a successful RPL assessment.

Evidence:

An assessor is required to collect evidence that proves that a student has the required level of competence. Once enough evidence has been collected the assessor can make a decision of competence and the student can gain the required unit of competency and eventually his or her qualification when all units are achieved.

A person undertaking RPL is required to provide such evidence to their assessor although it might be different evidence to what is collected for a student from a classroom or on-line teaching situation or a student in a work-based situation.

ENROLMENT AND INDUCTION

An enrolment and induction process is provided to all students entering training. An introductory interview may be held with an interested applicant to discuss entry requirements and enrolment procedures as well as information to understand the training program and establish any pre-requisites or requirements to enter a program.

When working with School-based students the referring teacher will be consulted and provided information pertaining to entry requirements, the enrolment procedures as well as information to understand the training program and establish any pre-requisites or requirements to enter a program. The referring teacher will then refer suitable students to the program and students will attend an induction program.

Once an applicant has a full understanding of the training program and any pre-requisites or requirements to enter a program are established, the enrolment may continue to the next phase.

Enrolment requires clear and accurate completion of the relevant enrolment documentation.

Information collected at enrolment is kept safe and confidential in accordance with our privacy protection systems. Detailed information about this is also provided in this booklet.

All students must provide a UNIQUE STUDENT IDENTIFIER [USI] number at enrolment for any training program that is nationally-recognised or accredited. Further information about the USI and obtaining a USI is provided in this booklet.

Staff are available to assist students in completing enrolment documentation and obtaining a USI if required.

At induction students will receive information on their training program and other areas such as:

- JobQuest's Code of Practice and training delivery methods;
- Advice regarding applying for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) or Credit Transfer;
- Completion of a training plan; including support required;
- Information about the qualification and the units of competency to be undertaken; and
- Opportunities for early completion of studies.

The induction program may also go through this booklet to ensure that all of the contents, particularly in relation to rights and responsibilities are clearly understood.

Student Selection

Students will be individually assessed on their eligibility and suitability for the training program being provided. Selection will comply with equal opportunity legislation and individuals will not be denied access to services through discriminatory practices. Programs in high demand will be filled on a "first in" basis based on eligibility and accurate completion of enrolment documentation.

We are, however, required under the National Vocational Education and Training Quality Framework, not to enroll students who we believe do not have the capacity to successfully complete a specific program.

To this end students may have to provide additional information or undertake testing to properly and fairly assess this capacity.

Complaints procedures are in place to ensure any concerns raised during student selection are dealt with immediately and appropriately in line with equal opportunity principles.

GENERAL TRAINING INFORMATION

Duration

The duration of the training varies depending upon the needs of the student and the type of training program. Students may have existing skills and experience or have undertaken some aspects of the training in previous studies or employment, prior to commencement of a training program.

Any Credit Transfer and Recognition of Prior Learning described below can shorten the duration of a program.

The training program duration and a student's expected completion date will be discussed and agreed at commencement. Additional fees may apply should the student need to extend their training beyond the agreed completion date.

Credit Transfer and Mutual Recognition

Every RTO must recognise and accept Certificates for qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any other RTO. JobQuest recognises these educational records issued by any other RTO provided that a copy of the Certificate or Statement of Attainment is provided or the original is sighted and copied by JobQuest. We will also verify any certificate provided with the issuing RTO.

When a student enrolls in a program, they may be able to gain Credit Transfer for units of competency already completed in previous training programs with JobQuest or any other RTO. This will mean they do not need to complete units they have already achieved. Sometimes units change and older versions may not be equivalent or the same as current ones. This will be discussed with you when your existing certificate is checked.

Recognition of Prior Learning [RPL]

JobQuest also recognises prior and current competencies regardless of how they were gained. RPL is the process of gathering evidence and making judgment in terms of the requirements of Units of Competency.

The definition of other learning includes, but is not limited to:

- Learning acquired in paid work and learning acquired in unpaid or voluntary work;
- Learning acquired arising from self directed study;
- Learning from programs run by educational institutions, accredited and non-accredited; and
- Learning from work-based training programs.

All students will be offered the opportunity to seek RPL at enrolment and they can also request an RPL assessment at any point during the program. The following RPL procedures are in place:

- Students will submit an RPL application form which will include a story of practice, a current resume and certified copies of certificates or other documentation for any formal training completed;
- Certificates and other educational awards may need to be verified;

- Following an initial review of the application, the assessor will conduct an interview with the student and identify any further evidence required.
- A timeframe for the completion of the RPL process will be agreed upon;
- Evidence may include 3rd party reports, demonstration of skill or samples of work;
- The assessor will then review the evidence and report on any gaps;
- If there are any gaps, further evidence will be submitted by the student and the assessment process finalised; and
- The student will be notified of the result of the RPL application and if necessary provided with information about any further training required.

Language, Literacy and Numeracy Assessment

Where selection for a training program requires a particular level of literacy, numeracy or other entry skills, an assessment may need to be undertaken. This initial assessment is designed to be a non-threatening experience.

A JobQuest trainer who has special skills in this area will conduct this assessment. The assessment will help to establish entry to a training program and will help identify where special training and support resources can be used during the program.

All JobQuest trainers are required to have the Unit of Competency - TAELLN411 Address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Information on language, literacy and numeracy support can also be accessed by contacting the Reading Writing Hotline on 1300 655 506 or the Australian Council for Adult Literacy at <http://www.acal.edu.au>.

Further Specialist Testing for Entry to Industry Requirements

Where there are essential requirements needing more specific testing, applicants for such programs will be required to undertake specific assessments and these will be arranged, at a mutually agreeable time where possible.

For Australian residents and those who have English as a second language and/or who are moving into high-risk training areas the state training authority specifies assessment must be conducted using a particular assessment program. These assessments will be arranged by JobQuest with the assessment being conducted by a specialist approved provider. Where a fee is levied for this compulsory testing, who pays for the fee [student or employer] needs to be determined before the testing takes place.

Completing a Training Program

When a student has successfully completed their training program, they will be issued with the appropriate educational award for the program. This may be a full qualification Certificate if they have achieved all of the required Units of Competency or a Statement of Attainment if they have only achieved some of the units.

For some programs a Certificate of Attendance may be issued.

Students who complete their qualification under a Traineeship will receive a separate Certificate of Proficiency from the NSW Department of Education - Training Services NSW.

Students who require the re-issue of an educational award can contact our Training Services staff. Students must be able to provide proof of identity and fees may apply.

Withdrawing from a Training Program

It is very important for students to inform the trainer quickly if they want to cancel or withdraw from a training program after they have enrolled.

This is particularly important if a contract to undertake a Traineeship has been signed. There are documents to submit to the relevant government agencies.

Once notification of withdrawal is received, JobQuest will issue information about progress, including a Statement of Attainment for any units successfully completed.

Students undertaking subsidised training under the NSW Smart & Skilled program need to also refer to Part 4 of this document – SMART & SKILLED ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.

FEES AND CHARGES

Paying Fees and Charges

Most students enrolling in training programs are required to pay fees. Some fee exemptions exist for some individuals and some types of training programs.

JobQuest fees and charges vary according to the type of training being undertaken such as:

- JobQuest Fee for Service Training; and
- Smart and Skilled - NSW Government Subsidised Training which includes Traineeships.

As fees are subject to change, they are provided for students and potential students in separate FEE SCHEDULES. These can be accessed from the JobQuest website, emailed or a printed copy provided on request.

Additional fees may apply if a student needs to:

- Extend training beyond the agreed completion date;
- Make more than 2 attempts to complete the assessment of a unit of competency;
- Access additional tutorial support or workplace visits from the trainer over and above what has been agreed to in the Training Plan;
- Have an educational award or transcript reissued; or
- Have additional specialised equipment to complete the training program [for example hard copy textbook when the learning materials are online].

Students will only be able to commence training programs once all enrolment documentation is accurately completed and applicable commencement fees have been paid in full. Fees can be paid in installments for some training programs – see Payment Schedule below.

All applicable fees and charges must be paid prior to training program completion. Certificates or other educational awards will not be released until all fees and charges have been paid.

All JobQuest fees and charges are subject to change.

All NSW subsidised Smart and Skilled [SAS] Student Fees are subject to change by the NSW Department of Education - Training Services NSW. Under SAS students need to pay the fee that applies in the year that training has commenced. Fee changes for subsequent years will only apply to new qualification enrolments.

Refunds

JobQuest will make refunds in the following circumstances upon written request to the RTO Manager:

- Overpayment of fee or charge;
- The training program is cancelled by JobQuest and the enrolment cannot be transferred to another JobQuest training program or study period; or
- The student advises JobQuest in writing, prior to the training commencement that they are withdrawing and returns all training materials previously issued complete, intact and unused.

If a student does not complete a Smart and Skilled [SAS] subsidised full qualification training program at a certain level but has completed all the requirements of a full qualification at a lower level [with lower-level fees], JobQuest will refund the difference in line with the SAS Operating Guidelines.

Administration, enrolment and additional fees and charges are not refundable.

Protection of Fees Paid in Advance

Fees paid in advance are those fees collected prior to training program commencement. JobQuest will not collect fees in advance in excess of $1,000.

Financial Hardship

JobQuest has a financial assistance service for those students who are experiencing financial hardship. If students are unable to pay the fees, they should contact the VET Manager at JobQuest who will provide further information about this service.

Recovering Outstanding Fees

Payment of fees and charges by the due date is a condition of enrolment. Failure to pay all fees owing may result in:

- Cancellation of enrolment; and/or
- Withholding of results, educational awards or certificates.

If a student fails to pay any fees owing, we will contact a student to discuss why this has occurred and agree to resolve any dispute a student may have as per the section Feedback, Complaints and Appeals.

Students may be provided with a limited extended time arrangement and/or a payment plan in order to pay the debt.

If a student does not comply with any debt payment arrangement or plan negotiated with JobQuest, the debt may be handed to a collection agency. If this occurs, the student will also need to pay the collection agency fee.

Payment Schedule

Fees can be paid in installments as shown in this table for all types of training.

Fee Payment Schedule
Fee payable	No of payments	Commencement	Completion (prior to issue of certificate or SOA)
Less than $1,000	1	100%	Any balance outstanding
More than $1,000	2	$1,000	Any balance outstanding

Applications for payment plans can also be made by contacting the RTO Manager.

NSW Government Subsidised Training - Smart and Skilled

When a student enrolls in a NSW government-subsidised training program under Smart and Skilled they are required to pay a qualification fee unless they qualify for a fee exemption or fee concession.

Fee Information specific to a Smart and Skilled subsidised training program will be provided upon completion of the Smart and Skilled Notification of Enrolment Process as the NSW Department of Education - Training Services NSW sets the fees for individual students.

All Smart and Skilled Student Fees are subject to change by Training Services NSW.

For some government subsidised training programs where fees are charged, students may be eligible for an exemption or concession as follows:

- Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander or have a disability and can meet the exemption criteria;
- Dependent spouses /children of eligible beneficiaries and students with a disability not eligible under any other category may also be eligible for concession;
- Receipt of some specified Commonwealth benefit or allowances and can provide satisfactory evidence; or
- Qualify for a fee-free scholarship.

Fees will be adjusted to reflect any RPL or Credit Transfer granted and, if necessary, refunds will be made.

PART 2

JOBQUEST TRAINING SERVICES

Training & Assessment Services

JobQuest has been providing nationally recognised or accredited training programs for over 20 years.

Like all Registered Training Organisations [RTO] in Australia, JobQuest must operate within the Vocational Education and Training Quality Framework set out in the Standards for Registered Training Organisations and is responsible for ensuring that our RTO operations comply with these standards at all times.

All training provided is competency based which is a method of training that acknowledges and links to the skills and knowledge required to perform competently in the workplace. It focuses on the outcomes of the training rather than the length of the time served in a training program.

Most training provided is linked to nationally recognised qualifications or statement of attainment under the Australian Qualifications Framework [AQF]. The AQF is the national policy for regulated qualifications in Australian education and training. As your RTO JobQuest is responsible for issuing qualifications.

The AQF sets out the various levels for qualifications within both the vocational and tertiary education sectors. This is reflected in the qualification description on the certificate, for example Certificate II, Certificate III, Certificate IV, Diploma etc. These levels have descriptors which indicate the general expectations for a worker at these levels. This enables a student to know if the level of qualification they are enrolling in is appropriate for their existing job role or for a future job role. The level descriptors are available from: <http://www.aqf.edu.au>.

Nationally Recognised Training

Nationally recognised or accredited qualifications form part of the Australia-wide vocational education and training system made up of industry developed Units of Competency which are grouped into qualifications at different levels in line with the AQF [described above].

This means that the knowledge and skills of training programs are occupationally based, industry-wide and consistent across all of Australia.

Delivery of Training Programs

Training programs are delivered in various modes. These are predominately work – based, classroom or mixed mode. Mixed mode involves a combination of modes and sometimes includes access to on-line learning materials.

A qualified trainer is assigned to each class or student and is responsible for:

- Preparing a training plan for a student or class [if required];
- Issuing learning materials and facilitating learning;
- Delivering face to face classroom sessions [if required];
- Meeting with students in their workplace [if required];
- Coaching students to enhance learning;
- Providing additional resources [if required];
- Providing welfare guidance to students in need; and
- Corresponding with students by the most effective means – phone, email etc.

Where students are work-based:

- Liaising with supervisors of students and when required, the employers; and
- Ensuring work-based tasks are completed that support the required learning.

At JobQuest trainers may also be assessors and in this role, are responsible for:

- Conducting assessment events and marking student’s assessment work;
- Collecting evidence of the student’s performance;
- Providing feedback on the student’s performance; and
- Keeping records to enable students to progress through their training program and receive a Certificate or Statement of Attainment.

The trainer will prepare a training plan with students to help plan progress to achieving goals. Training Plans are compulsory for all full qualification training programs.

Assessment of Skills

Assessment is the process by which a student's performance is measured against an expected standard. This process enables an assessor to make a decision that a student has met the requirements to be deemed competent for a Unit of Competency.

Assessment is also used to give feedback on progress and allow training to be tailored to specific needs.

How assessment takes place is flexible and assessment events may include but not be limited to:

- Observation of activities in the workplace or in a simulated work environment;
- Completion by the student of activities on-line or as an assignment or questionnaire;
- Completion of a project with a specific outcome, based on a range of tasks;
- Involving the assessor observing specific practical skills and/or asking questions;
- Involving a workplace supervisor providing a report on performance; and
- Collecting and presenting examples of work completed [products].

Only when sufficient evidence can be produced by the student to demonstrate that they meet the requirements of a Unit of Competency, can the assessor "sign off" that a unit has been completed.

Therefore, students must comply with the assessment requirements of any training program if they wish to receive a Certificate or a Statement of Attainment.

Certificates and Other Educational Awards

On the successful completion of a nationally recognised training program, JobQuest will issue either a Certificate for a qualification or a Statement of Attainment. The nationally recognised training logo on the certificate indicates the qualification or statement is recognised throughout Australia.

A Certificate is issued when all of the requirements for a qualification have been met.

A Statement of Attainment is issued when only part of the requirements for a qualification have been met.

A Statement of Attendance is issued, if requested, when a student attends a training program but does not complete the assessment requirements. These will only be issued when all of the attendance requirements have been met.

Flexible Learning & Assessment

JobQuest trainers are committed to offering flexible learning and assessment methods that best suit the needs of the student. These may take into account any barriers to learning or special needs that arise as the result of a specific disadvantage or physical or mental disability. As well as the Student Support, Welfare and Guidance Services described above, JobQuest can organise additional visits to assist work-based students who have been assessed as needing additional support.

Qualified and Professional Staff

JobQuest services are offered by qualified staff who are expected to take into account the diversity of student backgrounds. These may include cultural diversity such as being from a non-English speaking background, Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islanders, LGBTQI, people with disabilities, limited previous education, learning difficulties and other elements that may make them vulnerable or disadvantaged or create barriers to learning.

Staff will be professional and supportive at all times in their approaches to students, competent in the functions they perform, up to date with industry best practice and open to new and innovative ideas to assist the learning and assessment of students.

JobQuest staff are required to undergo a Criminal Record Check at their commencement of their employment, to ensure our students are protected. Those working with people under the age of 18 are also required to have a Working with Children Check.

Trainer and Assessor Responsibilities

Trainers and assessors also have responsibilities and expectations that demonstrate their professionalism. These are to:

- Establish a good working relationship with their students and all other people involved in the training and treat students and others fairly and with respect at all times;
- Follow the JobQuest Code of Practice for Training and Assessment Services;
- Follow the relevant policies and procedures of JobQuest and any workplace where they go to visit a student;
- Report any issues or concerns immediately to the VET Manager to enable the quick resolution of problems;
- Protect the personal information of students and the information of the companies that employ them;
- Provide assessment evidence, forms, records and other data in a timely fashion to support the progress of the student to the qualification/result that they seek to achieve;
- Notify the NSW Department of Industry - Training Services NSW about students undertaking traineeships who do not make satisfactory progress; and
- Comply with the Vocational Education and Training Quality Framework.

Trainers will also work with the employers of work-based students to make accessible any specialised equipment or support deemed necessary for a student to undertake their training and assessment.

Additional Traineeship Responsibilities

Employers

In a traineeship or work-based training program the employer is required to provide:

- On the job training, which provides a practical basis for gaining knowledge and learning the skills for the qualification being undertaken;
- All of the necessary facilities, resources and opportunities to acquire the skills of the vocation;
- Time off work to complete projects or attend training if necessary, including meeting with the trainer or assessor;
- A safe working environment that is also free from harassment and exploitation;
- Relevant people to assist in the assessment of the student's skills and knowledge;
- Feedback on the students' progress; and
- Communication with the trainer about the student's achievements and progress as required.

Australian Apprenticeship Support Network Responsibilities

Australian Apprenticeship Support Network providers carry out a free service to employers and students undertaking traineeships to help them with the sign up and administration of an Australian Apprenticeship [Traineeship].

Funded through the Department of Education, Skills and Employment these services include:

- Providing information on Australian Apprenticeship options to employers, students and interested other parties;
- Promoting Australian Apprenticeships;
- Administering incentive payments to employers;
- Working with the NSW Department of Education - Training Services NSW. to provide an integrated service; and
- Helping students to seek advice and assistance with the training contract, travel concessions, training wage rates and employment conditions.

Other Work Based Learning

Students are allowed to work unpaid as part of a training program. Information about this can be found at - <http://www.fairwork.gov.au/pay/unpaid-work/student-placements>.

Where students, other than those enrolled in traineeships, undertake work placement; the responsibilities of the employers are the same as those listed above for traineeships.

Where students undertake work placement as unpaid workers to develop their skills in a work environment, the employer has the same general responsibilities to them as volunteers. This is important in areas such as work health and safety and anti-discrimination. JobQuest provides insurance coverage for students completing training programs and attending work placements as part of the training.

JobQuest Unable to Provide Training and/or Assessment

If due to unforeseen circumstances JobQuest cannot provide the training and/or assessment service to a student, we will make every effort to support their transition to another Registered Training Provider. A Statement of Attainment will be provided for all units completed. A copy of the training plan will be provided to the new provider and any other records for which consent to transfer has been received, in order to support achieving the training outcome.

PART 3 QUALITY & LEGAL FRAMEWORK

Quality and Continuous Improvement

The quality systems at JobQuest are designed around ensuring that every student's experience is a positive and enjoyable one that results in their desired outcome through the delivery of high quality training services.

There are several elements that are key to ensuring that we can check on the quality of our products and services and continually improve every area of our operations to enhance the student experience.

At JobQuest we want to provide the best possible training services to our students so we need to get feedback about anything that is not quite right. We also want to have good, positive relationships with our students and their employers.

We want to always be continually improving what we do and we want to ensure that all of our students are treated fairly and their views are heard.

Student Equity

At JobQuest we encourage participation by individuals from those groups which have been under served in education and training including:

- People with special literacy or numeracy needs;
- People with disabilities;
- Aboriginals & Torres Strait Islanders; and
- People from a non-English speaking backgrounds;
- People from the LGBTI community;
- The unemployed;
- Women [in non-traditional occupations]; and
- Students from regional or remote areas.

JobQuest's VET Manager is the Student Equity Officer with the main objective of this position being to ensure all staff act in accordance with our Code of Practice and all students are made aware of their rights.

To contact the Student Welfare & Equity Officer Farrina Diogo, call (02) 4960 9024 or email mail@jobquest.org.au

Complaints, Appeals and Feedback

JobQuest has a complaints procedure aimed at resolving any issues students may have while undertaking a training program. Any student who is not happy with any aspect of their training program or the way they are treated by others should contact their Trainer or the staff at JobQuest on 4960 9024 as quickly as possible.

We usually recommend that a student discusses any concerns with any other person involved, in the first instance, so that any miscommunication or misunderstanding can be cleared up quickly. This is not recommended in situations where the matter of concern is sexual harassment or bullying. These matters should be reported to staff immediately.

If a student is not comfortable with making a personal approach to staff, a complaints form is available.

Anyone wanting assistance should contact the VET Manager who is also the Consumer Protection Officer and Student Welfare and Equity Officer. We want to help.

To contact the Consumer Protection Officer and Student Welfare & Equity Officer Farrina Diogo

Call (02) 4960 9024 or email mail@jobquest.org.au

If JobQuest staff cannot resolve an issue adequately there are external complaints processes that can be accessed depending on the type of training being undertaken and how it is funded.

What is a Complaint:

A complaint is where a student is dissatisfied with any service or action that may have occurred or a situation where a student is unhappy with the behaviour of others including staff.

What does it mean to Appeal an Assessment:

A situation where a student disagrees with the result of an assessment

Who can lodge a complaint or appeal:

- Any student or trainee
- A parent
- Friend
- Employer
- Supervisor
- Advocate [on the students behalf] can lodge a complaint or an appeal.

Any person involved with the RTO – students, staff and third parties [eg: employers] can raise a complaint or concern about any issue including the conduct of other people.

What can a person complain about?

Anything that is of concern;

Examples:

- Being given incorrect information
- Poor learning materials
- Unfair treatment
- Failure to respond to requests or contacts

The Complaints Process

STEP 1:

Speak to the trainer [unless the trainer is the subject of the complaint, then go to Step 2]

The trainer will do whatever they can to resolve the problem to the student's satisfaction. A student will be informed of any decision made.

This will happen within 2 working days.

A student can get help to make a complaint - JobQuest staff can help a student or a student can be put in touch with an independent external person if necessary.

All complaints will be lodged by the staff member receiving the complaint using the complaints form on the intranet. The complaint will be handled respectfully and discreetly by adopting an open-minded approach, the principles of natural justice and procedural fairness.

This process will include:

- Informing those involved in any allegation and enabling them to present their version of events;
- Investigating the situation in a fair, thorough and unbiased way; and
- Taking a mediation approach to the matter and ensuring that the complaint understands the steps in the process.

If a student believes a crime has been committed against themselves or another student, they will be assisted by staff to report this to the police. A student may also act independently to do this or have staff do this on their behalf when unable or unwilling to do so themselves

STEP 2:

If the trainer cannot resolve the problem or is the subject of the concern, a student should speak to the VET Manager or the Consumer Protection Officer. The VET Manager will investigate the problem and discuss with the student ways to resolve it.

A student can lodge a complaint by phone, in person, by email or letter. Please ask our staff for help if necessary.

To contact the Consumer Protection Officer and Student Welfare & Equity Officer Farrina Diogo, call (02) 4960 9024 or email mail@jobquest.org.au

By letter, please address to 196 Maitland Road Mayfield 2304.

STEP 3:

If the VET Manager cannot resolve the problem it will be referred to the Manager or his/her delegate who is responsible for ensuring that the procedure for complaints and appeals is followed.

The Manager will look at what the VET Manager has done and discuss with a student why the student is not happy with the resolution.

The Manager may offer a different form of solution. A student will be informed of any decision made.

STEP 4:

If the Manager cannot resolve the problem, it will be referred to the relevant external agency. These could include:

- ASQA (Australian Quality Skills Authority) - The national vocational education and training (VET) regulator;
- Training Services NSW. – Training Services NSW [only where the program is delivered under Smart and Skilled];
- Safe Work NSW - for Work Health and Safety issues;
- NSW Anti-Discrimination Board;
- NSW Ageing and Disability Commission;
- Disability Advocacy NSW – DA NSW;
- The Multi-Cultural Disability Advocacy Association of NSW; or
- The National Training Complaints Hotline – 13 38 73

What if processing the complaint or appeal is delayed?

JobQuest staff will make every attempt to process and resolve complaints and appeals as quickly as possible and keep you informed during this process. Where a complaint is delayed more than 60 days, JobQuest will inform the complainant or appellant in writing, including reasons why more than 60 calendar days are required and we will keep you informed in writing including the reasons for any delay on a regular basis until the matter has been resolved.

Can I get help to make a complaint?

JobQuest staff can assist a student or a student can be put in touch with an external person if necessary: People with a disability can get help from DISABILITY ADVOCACY NSW 4927 0111

- NSW Department of Education - Training Services NSW. Consumer Protection Unit for students enrolled in a Smart and Skilled Course at <https://smartandskilled.nsw.gov.au/for-students/consumer-protection-for-students>
- National Training Complaints Hotline – 13 38 73
- Australian Skills Quality Authority [ASQA] <https://www.asqa.gov.au/complaints>

Appeals Process

Should a student have any specific concerns in relation to the assessments undertaken, and feel they would like to review this process they have the right to lodge an appeal.

However please discuss these concerns with the trainer first or with the VET Manager at JobQuest. Appeals must be lodged in writing within 6 months of the assessment decision being made using the assessment appeals application form

Please ask our staff for help to complete the form if necessary.

Once an appeal has been lodged JobQuest will request a review of the assessment process and the evidence presented with an independent assessor within 7 days and keep the student informed of the progress of the appeal.

This assessor will investigate the appeal and either uphold or reject the appeal. If the student is still not happy with the outcome, they may raise the matter with an appropriate external body such as those listed on the previous page.

Feedback

It is extremely useful to receive feedback from students and the employers of work-based students. A student may be asked to provide feedback at times. While it's very helpful to us to get this, it is not compulsory.

Some of this feedback is collected by JobQuest on behalf of the government. This is called the LEARNER QUESTIONNAIRE. The information on this form is collected across all vocational education students in Australia and a summary is sent to the government once each year. No personal information that would identify a student is collected on this form.

As the Registered Training Organisation, JobQuest is audited from time to time by the registering body the Australian Skills Quality Authority [ASQA] or by Training Services NSW. Should a student be contacted by a representative of either ASQA or Training Services NSW, they are obliged to provide factual feedback.

Please be assured that any evaluation of services is confidential and only used for the purposes of improving the quality of our service to students.

Disciplinary Procedures

When undertaking training, students must make every effort to acquire the skills and knowledge required to successfully complete their training program by completing assignments and other assessment tasks set out by the trainer within the agreed timeframes.

Students are also required to behave in a manner that aligns with the Student Code of Conduct. Failure to do this may lead to disciplinary procedures being commenced.

This also includes accepting instruction and training given by and on behalf of the employer in the workplace where a student is undertaking a traineeship or other work-based program.

Failure to make satisfactory progress in a traineeship

Students undertaking traineeships are subject to specific procedures if they fail to make satisfactory progress in a NSW government subsidised training program or traineeship.

These are:

- A meeting between the trainee, the trainer and the workplace supervisor to discuss the situation;
- A plan of improvement will be discussed and developed including identifying any additional support required which the trainee is required to sign and will be attached to their file;
- A report will be made to the employer formally informing them of the status of the training and assessment and the contents of any improvement plan in place;
- A report will be made to Training Services NSW in line with Smart and Skilled Operating Guidelines;
- The trainee's progress will be reviewed within an agreed timeframe; and
- If no improvement is noted, then JobQuest may terminate the training agreement and report the cancellation to Training Services NSW and the employer.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

Work Health and Safety

Every employer has a legal responsibility or duty of care to protect the health and safety of people in the workplace. This includes manufacturers, suppliers, designers and controllers of work places, including owners and employees.

Employees and employers have certain responsibilities and obligations under WHS legislation.

NSW is legislated by the WORK HEALTH AND SAFETY ACT 2011. The legislation requires employers to adopt a risk management approach to eliminating and controlling risks to health and safety. The act covers all people who work in NSW in both the private and public sector, including self employed people, and applies within the state of NSW.

Employers must ensure the health, safety and welfare of their employees and others in any workplace.

Students undertaking training programs are required to report any hazards or risks that they observe or know about so they can be addressed and prevent injury to people or damage to property. This can be at any venue used for training and any workplace where a student is undertaking paid or unpaid work as part of a training program.

Information Privacy

In line with its Information Management Policy, JobQuest wants to ensure that the privacy of information of all participants in training and assessment activities is in line with the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 2002 [NSW] and the Privacy Act 1988 [Cth]

Where staff become aware that a student may be subject to, or in danger of, abuse or neglect, JobQuest may be required to report this to relevant agencies.

When a student completes a training program that is paid for or contracted by another party [such as their employer] they are asked to provide consent for this party to receive a copy of their certificate or statement of attainment, by signing the appropriate section on the Student Progress Form.

If a student has any complaint or concern about the privacy of information, please talk to trainer or the VET Manager.

Australian Vocational Education and Training Management Information Statistical Standard

(AVETMIS Standard or AVETMISS) is the agreed national data standard for the collection, analysis and reporting of vocational education and training information in Australia. The Standard consists of three parts: the AVETMIS Standard for VET Providers, the AVETMIS Standard for Australian Apprenticeships, and the AVETMIS Standard for Financial Data.

Registered Training Organisations must provide certain information to government in line with the AVETMIS Standard. A short video about the collection of enrolment data can be found at

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hveBYeuGee4>

Unique Student Identifier "USI".

The Unique Student Identifier [USI] is part of a 2015 Commonwealth Government initiative to help a student keep track of all records of training results and qualifications.

All students undertaking nationally-recognised training must have a USI before enrolment with a registered training organisation anywhere in Australia. Where a student has an exemption, they will not be able to access an authenticated VET transcript through the Student Identifier scheme.

A student can get a Unique Student Identifier (USI) through the Commonwealth Government Department of Industry: www.usi.gov.au

If you have an exemption from submitting data you will not be included in the National VET Provider Collection and your training activity will not appear on an Authenticated VET Transcript without a USI.

A student can create a USI easily. It only takes a few minutes!

1. A student needs to have an email address and an identification document to create a USI.
2. One of these documents is required:
 - Driver's Licence
 - Medicare Card
 - Australian Passport
 - Visa (with Non-Australian Passport) for International Students
 - Birth Certificate (Australian) *please note a Birth Certificate extract is not sufficient
 - Certificate of Registration by Descent
 - Citizenship Certificate
 - ImmiCard
3. Students must keep a record of their USI and remember their password for future reference.

Once a student has a USI they need to give JobQuest (their registered training provider) permission to:

- Verify the USI number;
- Update the USI record on the portal with the training in which the student is enrolled; and
- Update the student's personal details when required.

To give a training provider permission:

1. Log into the Student USI Portal;
2. Go to the Manage permissions tab; and
3. Click on Add Organisation. JobQuest Organisation Number is 90187

NSW Subsidised Smart and Skilled Students will also need to give access to their USI details to the NSW Department of Industry - Training Services NSW.

A USI can be accessed online from a computer, tablet or smart phone and enables training records and results to be kept together in an online account controlled by a student.

Each time a student enrolls to study with a new training organisation, a USI will be used to store the training records and results.

By having a USI a student will be able to access their training records and results (or transcript) for programs completed after 2015, whenever needed. For example, for a new employer or when wanting to enrol at a new training organisation.

Smart and Skilled Code of Practice

JobQuest has adopted the following Code of Practice for all students/trainees enrolled under the Smart and Skilled Program

All students/consumers have the right to:

- High quality education and training;
- Be informed about personal information that is collected about them and to review and correct that information;
- Access the JobQuest RTO consumer protection complaints system;

All students/consumers have obligations, including but not limited, to:

- Provide accurate information to the provider; and
- Behave in a responsible and ethical manner.

As a Smart and Skilled provider, JobQuest has certain specific obligations, including but not limited to:

- Provide the training and support necessary to allow the consumer to achieve competency;
- Provide a quality training and assessment experience for all consumers;
- Ensure that all RTO staff and agents meet public expectations of ethical behaviour at all times;
- Conduct marketing activities with integrity, accuracy and transparency and without financial incentives or other inducements to potential students;
- Ensure that prospective students are properly informed about their subsidised training entitlements, their fees and their responsibilities and obligations;
- Provide clear and accessible feedback to the consumer;
- Provide a consumer protection system including an identified Consumer Protection Officer; and
- Maintain procedures for protecting consumers' personal information.

Subcontractor Arrangements

JobQuest has not entered into any subcontracting arrangements for the delivery of training and assessment services.

Reasonable Adjustment

This means that the assessment process may be modified so that individual students are not disadvantaged during training and assessment. For example, a learner with a disability or with issues relating to language, literacy or numeracy may require some adjustment to the assessment process.

All students will undertake a language, literacy and numeracy assessment prior to training and also will be interviewed at enrolment to ensure any required adjustments are included in their training and assessment plan.

Should you require clarification of anything contained within this booklet or any further information, do not hesitate to speak with your trainer or contact the Training Services staff.
